

1. Executive Summary

The newly adopted Law on Tobacco Control in Kosovo that will effectively protect the public health from harmful effects of tobacco products consumption and exposure to tobacco smoke was the goal of the project.

Raising the general public awareness about the importance and change the new tobacco control policies are bringing in Kosovo society and supporting the scarce capacities of the implementing authorities in developing and implementing the regulations are identified as two most significant objectives to be achieved.

The public opinion has been mobilized through a tobacco-free policy awareness raising campaign “Breath Freely” launched on the World No Tobacco Day and marked with activities like the broadcast of the TV Spot “Breath Freely”, press conference with the main sponsors of the new Law and smoke-free Jazz Evening – “Celebrating the Change – Smoke Free Kosovo”.

Through accurate and immediate information and mobilization of public opinion and the media, people have become more supportive and ready to accept the change and enforcement of new tobacco control policies.

Addressing the lack of the capacities of implementing authorities and supporting and assisting them actively is crucial for the enforcement of new tobacco policies in early days for an effective enforcement of the new law.

The main achievements of the project are the successful launch of the awareness raising campaign, establishing and functionalizing of both Inter-Ministerial Council and enforcement working group for Law on Tobacco Control and development of the action plan and administrative instruction.

Finally, the project has managed to gather, coordinate and catalyze the collaboration of all authorities responsible for law enforcement, enhance their capacities and raise awareness about the importance and change the new Law on Tobacco Control is bringing in Kosovo.

2. Introduction

On April 2013, Kosovo has passed a comprehensive tobacco control law that includes the strongest protections in the world to date against tobacco industry interference in policy-making. These measures were based on Article 5.3 of the WHO Framework Convention on Tobacco Control mandating:

- 100 percent smoke-free indoor public places, work places and public transportation, as well as specified outdoor areas, with some very minor exceptions.
- Comprehensive bans on tobacco advertising, promotion and sponsorship, including a ban on retail tobacco product displays.
- Graphic health warnings on both sides of cigarette packages.
- Ban on misleading packaging, including descriptors such as "light" and "low."
- Prohibition on sales to and by minors.
- Ban on sales in health, education and athletic facilities.
- Granting power to the Ministry of Health to ban ingredients as needed.
- Constituent and emissions limits, with onerous reporting requirements for manufacturers.
- Cessation and education measures, including 45 minutes each month of mandatory programming on public radio and television.

In Kosovo forty-seven percent (47%) of youth have tried cigarettes before turning 18 and the current cigarette use for women in the region is 44 percent, the second highest in the world. The previous law on tobacco has been weakly drafted and could not be enforced effectively.

Passing the law was the first crucial step towards protecting public health and creating a smoke-free environment in Kosovo. However, the scarce capacities and lack of clear organizational structure of the implementing authorities makes it very difficult for the Government to act alone and alone start enforcing the new tobacco control policies.

4. Conclusions

The main achievements of the project were the successful launch of the public awareness raising campaign “Breath Freely”, establishment and functionalizing of both Inter-Ministerial Council and enforcement working group for Law on Tobacco Control and development of the action plan and administrative instruction.

The public opinion has been mobilized through a tobacco-free policy awareness raising campaign “Breath Freely”. The campaign has been launched on the World No Tobacco Day marking it with numerous activities such as broadcast of the TV Spot “Breath Freely”, press conference with the main sponsors of the new Law, distribution of posters and leaflets and smoke-free Jazz Evening – “Celebrating the Change – Smoke Free Kosovo”.

A significant step towards successful enforcement of the Law throughout Kosovo was the establishment of the Inter-Ministerial Council with the aim to monitor and coordinate activities of supervision and execution authorities for the enforcement of the Law on Tobacco Control throughout the Country.

Moreover, to foster the collaboration between different implementing authorities and enhance their work an enforcement working group has been established consisted of the representatives of the Ministry of Health, Inspectorate, Police, WHO-Office in Kosovo and KADC.

The immediate needs for the secondary legislation to the responsible implementing authorities have been identified, prioritized and addressed.

In this regard, the Ministry of Health has been supported in developing and drafting the administrative instruction on smoking ban signage format; standard operational procedures and detailed one-year action plan for the implementing authorities.

Finally, the project has managed to gather, coordinate and catalyze the collaboration of all authorities responsible for law enforcement, enhance their capacities and raise awareness about the importance and change the new Law on Tobacco Control is bringing in Kosovo.
